

Amman Gathering

Around the teachings of

KRISHNAMURTI

From Thursday 2nd July (arrival) – Tuesday 7th July (departure) 2009

The Krishnamurti Committee in the Arab World would like to hold its first gathering around Krishnamurti's teachings in Amman, Jordan, from 3 – 6 July 2009. The main targeted people for this gathering are those who are interested in Krishnamurti's teachings from the Arab World. Others, however, who are concerned and wish to join us, are welcome depending on available places.

The intention of this gathering is to create a space and an opportunity for serious dialogues among all participants, to deepen our understanding of the teachings and of ourselves, and to learn how we can change our world simply by changing our thoughts and beliefs.

The Main Program: during the main program, we will be watching some videos of Krishnamurti's dialogues and talks on the main themes of the gathering, followed by open discussions. In addition, we will have workshops and meetings to discuss issues related to the translations and publishing of Krishnamurti's books in Arabic and other future projects. We would like to encourage attendees to help with the translation project in an effort to make the teachings available to a wider audience. A more detailed program will be sent to all participants, well before the gathering.
